ABSTRACT

This publication presents information on graduate enrollment by gender, enrollment status and total graduate degrees awarded for Council of Graduate School member institutions participating in a 1991 survey. The Enrollment Survey is mailed each year to the approximately 650 institutions that are members of the Council of Graduate Schools or of one of the four affiliated regional graduate associations. Institutions are listed alphabetically. The graduate enrollment reported by each institutions for fall 1991 is shown, followed by the percentage distribution by gender and enrollment status. Finally the number of master's and or doctoral degrees granted in academic year 1990-91 is given. A summary table of total graduate enrollment and degrees awarded for all institutions profiled is presented followed by a chart describing the distribution of the institutions by total graduate enrollment. Details on institution participation in the 1991 Survey, as well as a sample survey data sheet, are provided in two appendixes. (JB)

Introduction

This Profile of CGS Institutions presents information on graduate enrollment by gender and enrollment status -- as well as total graduate degrees awarded -- for CGS member institutions that participated in the 1991 CGS/GRE Survey of Graduate Enrollment.[1] The Enrollment Survey is mailed each year to the approximately 650 institutions that are members of the Council of Graduate Schools or one of the four regional graduate associations affiliated with CGS.[2]

Institutions are listed alphabetically. The graduate enrollment reported by each institution for fall 1991 is shown, followed by the percentage distribution by gender and enrollment status. Finally, the number of master's and/or doctoral degrees granted in academic year 1990-91 is given.

A summary table of total graduate enrollment and degrees awarded for all institutions profiled is presented on page ii, followed by a chart describing the distribution of the institutions by total graduate enrollment. Details on institution participation in the 1991 Survey, as well as a sample Survey data sheet, are provided in the appendixes A and B, respectively.

As a companion to this printed report, the database upon which the report is based is also available on diskette without charge to CGS members. The diskette is in IBM-PC format and can be obtained in 3 1/2" or 5 1/4" sizes. Files on the diskette are in both Lotus 1-2-3 and ASCII format. In addition to the data presented in the report, the data files contain information on institutional characteristics such as institutional control, highest degree granted, and Carnegie Classification.

The Profile of CGS Institutions, 1991 is presented by CGS for the benefit of graduate administrators. Comments or suggestions for improving this presentation are welcome.

[1] The survey population of the CGS/GRE Survey of Graduate Enrollment is limited to U.S. institutions. Data for Canadian institutions were those submitted to Statistics Canada and reported by the Canadian Association for Graduate Studies in Statistical Report 1992 (Christopher Sharpe, Memorial University of Newfoundland, author). Not all U.S. CGS institutions responded to the 1991 Survey. See Appendix A.

*NR (No Response) occurs where data were not provided by the institution.
NA (Not Applicable) refers to institutions that granted either master's or doctoral degrees, but not both, as of fall 1991.
NOTE: Not all CGS member institutions responded to the 1991 survey. See Appendix A.

Sources: CGS/GRE Survey of Graduate Enrollment, 1991 (U.S. institutions); Canadian Association for Graduate Studies, Statistical Report 1991 (Canadian institutions).

Appendix A.

Institutions that were members of CGS as of May 1993 are included in the Profile of CGS Institutions, 1991. Data for U.S. institutions are derived from responses to the 1991 CGS/GRE Survey of Graduate Enrollment. Data for Canadian CGS institutions are derived from the Canadian Association of Graduate Studies Statistical Report 1991. Of the 402 CGS member institutions, 383, or 95 percent, are included in the Profile.

Of the nineteen CGS institutions not included in the Profile, seven joined CGS after the 1991 survey and were not members of one of the four regional associations affiliated with CGS. For this reason they were not included in the 1991 survey sample and therefore could not have responded. These seven institutions are:

Columbia College
Coppin State College
Hunter College of CUNY
Salem State College
University of San Francisco
University of Sarasota
West Virginia Graduate College

Twelve CGS institutions were included in the 1991 survey sample but did not respond:

California State University, Sacramento
New York University
Northeast Missouri State University
Tennessee State University
Texas Southern University
University of Bridgeport
University of California, Irvine
University of Central Florida
University of Rhode Island
University of Texas at Dallas
U of Texas Grad School of Biomedical Sciences, San Antonio
Yeshiva University

CARNEGIE[1]	112-113	Q	Based on the Carnegie Classification of Institutions of Higher Education (U.S. only): 11, 12 = Research I & II; 13, 14 = Doctorate Granting I & II; 21, 22 = Comprehensive I & II; 31, 32 = Liberal Arts I & II; 51 = Religious; 52 = Medical; 53 = Health Professional; 54 = Engineering; 55 = Business; 58 = Teachers; 59 = Other.

Explanation:

Percentages in A Profile of CGS Institutions were derived by dividing the detail variable by the total of known enrollment. For example, TM/(TM+TF) = % male enrollment; TPT/(TPT+TFT) = % part-time enrollment.

[1]The Carnegie system groups U.S. colleges and universities on the basis of the level of degree offered and the comprehensiveness of their missions. For a detailed description of the Carnegie classifications, see page 7 of A Classification of Institutions of Higher Education, The Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, Princeton: Princeton University Press, 1987, or call (609)452-1780.
